BOUNCERS BLURB

As Ray reaches a tombstone er... milestone the trash pays deference and goes clean for an issue! Normal service will be resumed as soon as possible.

1000th run mugs are now £2 so grab Phil or Bouncer for these. Whether you actually ran at the 1000th or not doesn't matter – as a BH7 hasher you should have one, or even a set of six. Also a reminder about the tankards – keep counting.

The brewery trip was as usual very well received, thanks Les, and those who made it had a very good night followed by the requisite curry – for everyone else this comes around every two years so tough luck, you'll have to wait and take your chances as we all want to go again!

If anyone actually made the Surrey treasure hunt well done, hope you enjoyed it.

Alright all those who promised a trash contribution. Where the bleep is it?

Thanks to all those who sponsored Burgess Hill Runners trek across Europe. We made it after a few challenges and some very early mornings and late nights.

The article on the left is the actual headline seen in the Argus, but the money is safe. Our Viagra search was unsuccessful! I'll be badgering you for the cash tonight. The good news is that I can hold it open for a few weeks if you missed out and would like to donate to the Children with Special Needs Trust.

HERE WE GO: The Burgess Hill relay team prepare for their 500-mile run to Germany on Saturday.

Relay runners with hidden message

RUNNERS are taking a message in a baton 500 miles to a German town.

More than 20 members of the Burgess Hill Runners group left today on the friendship jog to the twin town of Schmallingenberg, near Cologne.

The group will carry a hollow chrome-plated copper baton containing

by PHIL DENNETT

greetings from Burgess Hill Town Twinning Association, and the town council.

The runners expect to reach Schmallingenberg on Saturday for a VIP welcome.

They started from Church Walk in Burgess Hill and are making their way through North Chailey, Uckfield, Framfield, Heathfield, Burwash, towards the Channel Tunnel.

Then after an overnight stop at Dover it's on through France, Belgium and Holland to Germany. Spokesman John Mower said: "After all the planning it's a great relief to be on our way."

"The most difficult

stage will actually be from Burgess Hill to Dover.

"We are running on mostly smaller roads, but on the stretch to Dover it was difficult picking roads which avoided major routes."

Each runner will be accompanied by a cyclist who will ride on ahead to pick the best route.

The good wife's guide

- Have dinner ready. Plan ahead, even the night before, to have a delicious meal ready, on time for his return. This is a way of letting him know that you have been thinking about him and are concerned about his needs. Most men are hungry when they come home and the prospect of a good meal (especially his favourite dish) is part of the warm welcome needed.
- Prepare yourself. Take 15 minutes to rest so you'll be refreshed when he arrives. Touch up your make-up, put a ribbon in your hair and be fresh-looking. He has just been with a lot of work-weary people.
- Be a little gay and a little more interesting for him. His boring day may need a lift and one of your duties is to provide it.
- Clear away the clutter. Make one last trip through the main part of the house just before your husband arrives.

- Gather up schoolbooks, toys, paper etc and then run a dustcloth over the tables.
- Over the cooler months of the year you should prepare and light a fire for him to unwind by. Your husband will feel he has reached a haven of rest and order, and it will give you a lift too. After all, catering for his comfort will provide you with immense personal satisfaction.
- Prepare the children. Take a few minutes to wash the children's hands and faces (if they are small), comb their hair and, if necessary, change their clothes. They are little treasures and he would like to see them playing the part. Minimise all noise. At the time of his arrival, eliminate all noise of the washer, dryer or vacuum. Try to encourage the children to be quiet.
- Be happy to see him.
- Greet him with a warm smile and show sincerity in your desire to please him.
- Listen to him. You may have a dozen important things to tell him, but the moment of his arrival is not the time. Let him talk first - remember, his topics of conversation are more important than yours.
- Make the evening his. Never complain if he comes home late or goes out to dinner, or other places of entertainment without you. Instead, try to understand his world of strain and pressure and his very real need to be at home and relax.
- Your goal: Try to make sure your home is a place of peace, order and tranquillity where your husband can renew himself in body and spirit.
- Don't greet him with complaints and problems.
- Don't complain if he's late home for dinner or even if he stays out all night. Count this as minor compared to what he might have gone through that day.
- Make him comfortable. Have him lean back in a comfortable chair or have him lie down in the bedroom. Have a cool or warm drink ready for him.
- Arrange his pillow and offer to take off his shoes. Speak in a low, soothing and pleasant voice.
- Don't ask him questions about his actions or question his judgment or integrity. Remember, he is the master of the house and as such will always exercise his will with fairness and truthfulness. You have no right to question him.
- A good wife always knows her place.

The following is a direct quote from the Center for Strategic and International Studies report on GLOBAL ORGANIZED CRIME

FBI agents conducted a raid of a psychiatric hospital in San Diego that was under investigation for medical insurance fraud. After hours of reviewing thousands of medical records, the dozens of agents had worked up quite an appetite. The agent in charge of the investigation called a nearby pizza parlor with delivery service to order a quick dinner for his colleagues.

The following telephone conversation took place and was recorded by the FBI because they were taping all conversations at the hospital.

Agent: Hello. I would like to order 19 large pizzas and 67 cans of soda.

Pizza Man: And where would you like them delivered?

Agent: We're over at the psychiatric hospital.

Pizza Man: The psychiatric hospital?

Agent: That's right. I'm an FBI agent.

Pizza Man: You're an FBI agent?

Agent: That's correct. Just about everybody here is.

Pizza Man: And you're at the psychiatric hospital?

Agent: That's correct. And make sure you don't go through the front doors. We have them locked. You will have to go around to the back service entrance to deliver the pizzas.

Pizza Man: And you say you're all FBI agents?

Agent: That's right. How soon can you have them here?

Pizza Man: And everyone at the psychiatric hospital is an FBI agent?

Agent: That's right. We've been here all day and we're starving.

Pizza Man: How are you going to pay for all of this?

Agent: I have my chequebook right here.

Pizza Man: And you're all FBI agents?

Agent: That's right. Everyone here is an FBI agent.

Can you remember to bring the pizzas and sodas to the service entrance in the rear? We have the front doors locked.

Pizza Man: I don't think so.

"Welfare Dept Letter Excerpts"

The following are excerpts from actual letters received by the welfare department of an unnamed state.

"I am forwarding my marriage certificate and six children. I had seven but one died, which was baptized on half a sheet of paper."

"I am writing the Welfare Department to say that my baby was born two years old. When do I get my money?"

"Mrs. Jackson has not had any clothes for a year and has been visited regularly by the clergy."

"I cannot get sick pay, I have six children. Can you tell me why?"

"I am glad to report that my husband who is missing is dead."

"This is my eighth child. What are you going to do about it?"

"Please find for certain if my husband is dead. The man I am now living with can't eat or do anything until he knows."

"I am very much annoyed to find out that you have branded my son illiterate. This is a dirty lie, as I was married a week before he was born."

"In answer to your letter, I have given birth to a son weighing 10 pounds. I hope this is satisfactory."

"I am forwarding my marriage certificate and my three children one of which is a mistake, as you can see."

"My husband got his project cut off about two weeks ago and I haven't had any relief since."

"Unless I get my husband's money pretty soon, I will be forced to lead an immortal life."

"You have my changed little boy to a girl. Will this make any difference?"

"I have no children as yet as my husband is a truck driver and works day and night."

"In accordance with your instructions, I have given birth to twins in the enclosed envelope."

"I want money as quick as I can get it. I have been in bed with the doctor for two weeks and he doesn't do me any good. If things don't improve, I will have to send for another doctor."

A man out playing golf slices off into the woods. When he goes to find the ball, he discovers a witch (hat and all) stirring a cauldron. So out of curiosity he asks her what she is brewing.

"A magic potion" she replies.

"Well what is it for?" he asks.

"This potion will make anyone an excellent golfer" she replies. At this he gets really excited and asks if he can have some. She is agreeable but warns him that it will have dire consequences on his sex life.

After a short period of soul searching he decides to try the potion.

He goes back to the golf course and completes an excellent game of golf. Next he challenges the golf pro and beats him easily. He spends every possible moment of the next year playing golf at every course he manages to get to and has a wonderful time of it. After a year he finds himself back at the same course where he found the witch. Out of curiosity he slices one into the woods so he can talk to her.

"Well", she asks, "How has your game been?"

"Great! This has been the best year of my life. I have played all over the country and never lost a game."

"And how about your sex life?"

"Oh, not bad."

"Really? This stuff can really ruin a guy's sex life. Say, how many times did you have sex last year?"

"HMMMMM, it was three, no, four times."

"And you call that not bad?"

"Well for a priest with a small parish..."

A man walks into a bar and orders a drink. After sitting for a few minutes, he hears a voice say, "nice tie." He looks around but doesn't see anybody near him and so he forgets about it.

Some time passes and he hears the same voice say, "nice shirt." This time he looks everywhere, behind him, up and down the bar, under the chair, behind the bar, everywhere he can think to look, but he doesn't see anyone.

A few minutes later he hears, "nice haircut." He can't stand it anymore, so he calls the bartender over and tells him he has been hearing this voice but can't figure out who is speaking.

The bartender says, "Oh that... That's the nutsthey're complimentary."

A vampire bat came flapping in from the night covered in fresh blood, and parked himself on the roof of the cave to get some sleep.

Pretty soon all the other bats smelt the blood and began hassling him about where he got it.

He told them to piss off and let him get some sleep, but they persisted until he finally gave in.

"OK, follow me," he said and flew out of the cave with hundreds of bats behind him.

Down through a valley they went, across a river and into a forest of trees. Finally he slowed down and all the other bats excitedly milled around him.

"Now, do you see that tree over there?" he asked.

"YES, YES, YES!" the bats screamed in a frenzy.

"Good!" said the first bat, "Because I bloody didn't!"
