Boggy talk:

Many thanks to all who sent birthday messages to Dave Taylor, even though you may not be entirely familiar with who you were sending them to! Just demonstrates what a lovely community we have here, and Dave's message of appreciation to myself and Angel is included below, slightly edited to make sense to a wider audience.

We've at last received confirmation that the On On for Oz money to the Belowra Fire Brigade on behalf of hasher Rover reached its intended destination, which is a relief! This was of course in addition to that made to Wires, which has already been acknowledged.

And good to see hash bubbles appearing in a few places, with small groups getting together for socially distanced runs. This seems a natural precursor to a full resumption but please bear in mind the limit of 6. As St. Bernard says, the hash must be seen to be doing the right thing. We will get there, but no point rushing it and risking it.

On on, Bouncer

A message from David Taylor:

Please pass on my appreciation of the good wishes sent by hash members some of whom I may have seen but don't really know. Many thanks for all your good wishes.

The day itself was very enjoyable if somewhat different from what had been planned. Let's hope it won't be long before we can enjoy a pint in Seaford together.

Look after your goodselves

Best wishes

Dave & Jenny.

REZOOMING the Hash...

Zoom #9 – Wilds Things – not Sci-Fi after all quiz – There was a collective moan when Wilds Thing announced a Sci-Fi quiz for his turn at keeping us entertained on Zoom, not from all as I was actually quite looking forward to learning a bit more about Star Wars although I'm more for lightweight humour based stuff normally - think Red Dwarf, Hitch Hikers, Third Rock and er.. ALF. A few were obviously put-off as we ended up with one of our smallest packs but I expect the weather may have played a part too! As we waited arrivals Gromit regaled us with another anagram which might just have had a political angle as it seems STAY ALERT CONTROL THE VIRUS SAVE LIVES translates seamlessly into EASILY SURVIVES TRAVELS NORTH TO CASTLE. Whatever could he mean?! With Dave Taylors 80th birthday on Friday his e-mail address was shared so that anyone who wanted could wish him all the best. Being only a sporadic hasher of late, appearing on specials such as Christmas, or when we're in Seaford, Dave is not so well known to our newer members so Chopper informed us that he was the one that did the drumming while Bunter stripped in the Bridge in Shoreham. Now given that Bunter has been gone these past 5 years, and the hash record suggests this was probably June 1985 or earlier, I'm not sure that was of much help! It was now that Wilds Thing revealed he'd bowed to pressure and created a beer quiz instead prompting Angel to say "no need to throw your rattle out the cot"! Still it was a good quiz, won convincingly by Gromit who downed with Wilds Thing for setting. In other news, KIU and Wildbush revealed their Plough Sash fail due to it being too peopley and his phone battery dying; we learned that WT likes Lego; Roaming had received far too many eggs in her shopping (33 against 6 ordered - you had to be there!); and, as Angel and I bragged about our Downs Link walk, Prince Crashpian trumped us by announcing he was canoeing there, not easy given the lack of clear waterways! And finally, Ride-It, Baby appeared late as usual having been swimming, just in time for Wildbush's funnies. Another great Zoom hash!

The quiz (answers underlined – sorry to be a killjoy but there are plenty for you to have a go at elsewhere in the trash):

SEAGULLS UP AND DOWN THE COUNTRY DEMANDING TO KNOW WHERE THE BLOODY HELL THEIR CHIPS ARE

Britain's seagulls are now leaving behind their demonic greed and are entering a state of extreme panic as food sources don't appear to be being walked up and down the high street by unsuspecting children like food's supposed to be.

Deal gull, Jonathan Livingstone Jnr has asked we explain what the hell we think we're playing at? "Where are the chips? Also I haven't even seen any of that kebab meat you tend to leave marinating overnight in puddles of beer and bile. I've got hungry children at home waiting for me puke over them."

TOP FEATURES YOU'RE STILL GOING TO READ IN THE PAPERS

An exclusive guide by Phil Pages as to what's going to be filling the pages in the coming months of lockdown

Travel section Where best to go this summer. Should you head for the kitchen, the bathroom, the kitchen again, the magnificent heights of the attic or hit the spacious idyll of the broom cupboard?

Food section What to eat. Will it be that out-of-date tin of tuna, or the quinoa you bought in a panic? Why not both, topped with a sprinkling of Frosties, and washed down with that bottle of Ouzo that's been sitting at the back of the kitchen cupboard since that holiday in Paxos in 1983?

Fashion section What to wear when the only contact you have with the outside world is sat at your desk on a Zoom conference call. Yes, the no-trouser look is in! But Vogue's Anna Wintour recommends you wear underpants, saying, "Nobody wants to be in a meeting with a guy who's going commando".

Sports section Stage the Olympics in your own small flat with these incredible events: squash, wastepaper basketball, the one-metre dash to the TV remote, sofa hurdle, synchronised shouting, not to mention climbing (up the wall).

TV section What to watch? Anything. Everything. Over and over again. (That's enough. Ed.)

(Actually, that's not nearly enough, we've got months of this. Phil.)

REZOOMING (ctd.) ...

Zoom #10 – Gromit – Fukarwe had volunteered a r*n for 6 at 6, initially advertising it as a hash but dropping back to a trail r*n to be followed by a socially distanced beer in his garden to avoid the dangers of flocks of hashers turning up, while Keeps It Up had managed a Haywards Heath meet up before popping into the Zoom Arms. There was a decent turn out for Gromit's excellent quiz covering General Knowledge, Sussex, Brighton and Trump, although Happy Ending admitted she wouldn't be paying attention during rounds 2 & 3 as 1) they would probably be too specific for our south of France correspondent and 2) she had to fold her laundry (!). And Wilds Thing was intent on scoffing a cake which led to his sister, the creator of same, being persuaded to provide for his next real hash sip. A moment of elation for YT when Gromit announced myself and Angel as winners before a re-count revealed that we'd only drawn with Just Jacqui for 2nd place while Swallow and Spourtacus had run away with it, however, it seems our screen chose that moment to freeze as Angel's face fell so, while we could hear clearly, everyone was stuck looking at her disappointment. Knightrider didn't stand a chance only arriving in time for round 4, which left the wooden spoon in Dangleberry's hands, shared with Wilds Thing who'd stormed the last round to save face after an abysmal start. Elsewhere, Roaming gave us a vegetable show, joined by Pompette, and prompting Happy Ending to remark that a lady should never show her curly kale, whatever that means! Seeing Gromit drain his tankard, prompted a down down for him for setting the quiz, on which he did a personal best - hardly surprising as he drank it dry! I've always considered Peter Pansy's RUNGRY shirt to be amusing but the baying hoards decided it wasn't hash, so he showed us a proper down down, notwithstanding it was fizzy up the nose lager crap, but Happy Ending (who missed last week as she was moving confessed it had also been her birthday), despite not being a beer drinker, still refused to down an empty tankard or glass for us. Ride-It Baby arrived late after joning Fukarwe's real run, but in time for the drinks labels run through. Wilds Thing did very well at this but didn't keep his score, which left Airman and Pompette clear winners with 16/20 and the opportunity to arrange next weeks entertainment. Knightrider left to join Prof, Mudlark and Hash Gomi for a garden beer then there was more talk about Wilds Things 24 miles in 24 hours. Running on the hour every hour he expressed trepidation about the night time miles as he doesn't want to go off-road with a torch in the dark, which is exactly what we've been training him for on regular hash nights! Penguin Shagger had been dismissive of my 15 minute a mile suggested pace reckoner for a hash earlier, and Peter Pansy was similarly doubtful, while Airman (who'd just fallen backwards off his chair giving us a view of his ceiling) and Pompette could only dream of 15 minute miles. In the crazy lockdown activities section, PP admitted he'd done a duathlon at home covering 10 kilometres run outside, 40 km on his exercise bike and rounding up with 362 lengths of his garden for a final 5k run. Closer inspection of the final section, given that he's a 20 minute parkrunner, revealed his time to be 37 minutes a pace of over 12 minute miles! I rest my case... And finally, Airman was congratulated on his continued survival after Mailbog had offered me some pictures he thought were the recently deceased Barfly but were clearly Bob before his six million dollar overhaul. Another great Zoom hash! Bouncer

Don't let anyone tell you the U.S. is going backwards. We elected our 1st black p[re]sident. Then we elected a special needs president.

- * Requiring face masks THREE months into a pandemic is like requiring condoms at the baby shower.
- * There are so many Coronavirus jokes out there it's become a pundemic.
- * I have the most loving wife. Last night I woke up and she was tightly holding a pillow over my face to protect me from COVID 19.
- * Maan, all these doctors and nurses and microbiologists, and immunologists and epidemiologists and other researchers keep saying that COVID 19 is dangerous, but all these dudes I went to high school with who barely passed science say it's not dangerous. It's so hard to know who to believe anymore.

Alcohol (Noun) The glue holding this shitshow together.

CRAFT Hash drinks quiz - - can you identify what these alcoholic drinks are?

Today I learned that the average person consumes 9 alcoholic drinks a week. Today I also learned that I'm above average.

I must admit to being impressed at how smart the Covid19 virus really is... It doesn't contaminate you in a protest demonstration of thousands, but any more than 6 on a hash and it'll have you straight away. You're totally safe at Tesco, Asda, Lidl, B&Q or Wickes, but it'll get you in the pub, bars, clubs and restaurants. Tricky little bastard.
