DATE [Monday at 19:30]	#NO	HARE/ QUIZMASTERS	Theme
18th January 2021	Zoom #28	Dangleberry	Big quiz of 2020
25th January 2021	Zoom #29	Slash Gordon	Burns night special - bring haggis & whisky!
1st February 2021	Zoom #30	Keeps It Up	Mystery Theme*

Question 29 will ask you to identify the mystery theme. The final question will be about the theme.

For something more physical, download the Echoes app from <https://explore.echoes.xyz/> on your smartphone for Dangleberry's Sash (solo hash) trails. Type sash in the search box, Enter and select.

Or find Drambulie's Hollingdean Hash in the same way.

Trails available so far start from:

Shoreham: Buckingham Arms BN43 5WA

Pyecombe: Plough BN45 7FN

Henfield: White Hart BN5 9HP

Lindfield: Stand Up Inn RH16 2HN

Plumpton: Fountain BN7 3BX

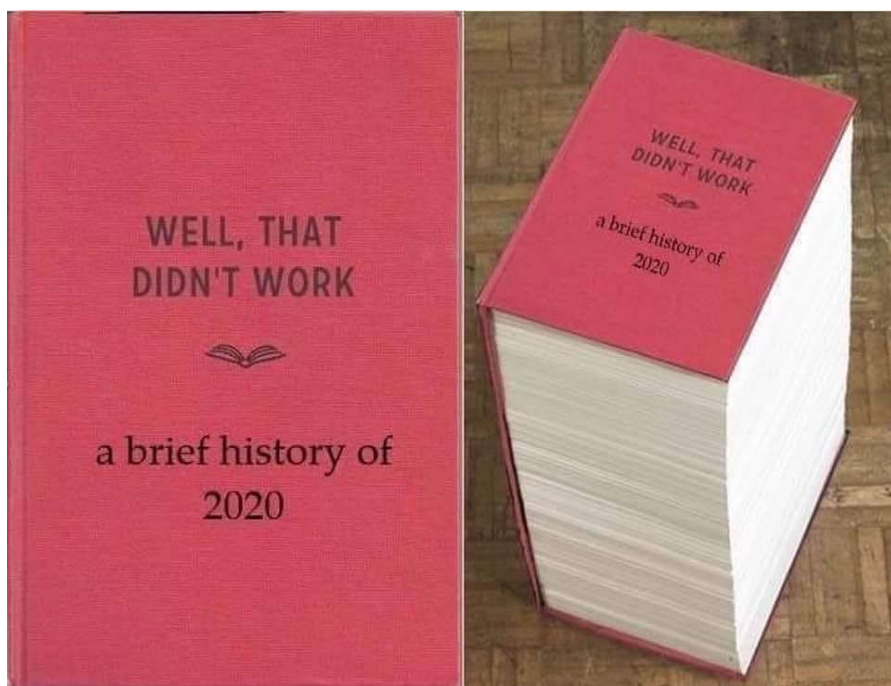

Woodingdean: Downs Hotel, BN2 6BB

Horsham: Bear RH12 1EU

Brighton: Former Port Hall Tavern BN1
5PL

Hove actually: Hove Park Tavern BN3 7AP

SPOILER ALERT: While Sash photos are very welcome, please do not share the route for any of the Sound App trails on the Brighton Hash Facebook page, as this will detract from the experience for others wishing to have a go.

Thoughts for the day: At 12.01am on January 1st, for the first time ever, Hind Sight was actually 2020.

Bonus positivity: An arrow can only be launched by pulling it backwards. When life is dragging us back with difficulties, it means it's going to launch us into something great. So just focus, and keep aiming.

Once again we've been knocked back with no hope of a return to hashing until after half-term and that looking increasingly unlikely. Next stop Easter. Until then we will continue with the Zoom meetings, which are great for, at least, verbal and visual contact with other members of the club, a chance to make sure people are coping and to enjoy a bit of social discourse.

There is usually a quiz as well as Wildbush's funnies and occasional other features all designed to entertain in as hashy a way as possible. Have a go at recent quizzes inside!

Since Cooperman suggested the trash would benefit from more pictures, I've built up a huge library of things I find amusing to share with you. Frequently the moment goes before they make it to these pages, so I decided to cram as much of 2020 as I could into this special 2020 hindsight issue, before the memory of one of the worst years in peacetime memory fades. It is the nature of humanity to laugh through adversity, so I hope you are entertained by the many memes, one-liners and other articles here.

As ever, any input, feedback or reviews always welcome!

YEAR 2020 WAS BETTER THAN YOU THINK

- The ozone hole over Antarctica closed
- Germany is changing 62 military bases into nature reserves
- Whales came back to the Atlantic ocean after more than 100 years
- Great Britain reported the smallest number of people that became infected with HIV in history
- China, as the biggest air polluter in the world, committed to achieving zero emissions by 2060
- The number of victims of terrorism decreased for the 5th year in a row
- In 2020 people saved 48 animal species from extinction
- Scientists discovered 20 new animal and plant species. They also rediscovered some they thought were extinct
- Kazakhstan became the 88th nation that committed to abolish the death penalty
- Elephant population in Kenya doubled
- Saudi Arabia and Palestine banned child marriages
- Demand for oil decreased for the first time in history and Denmark even promised to end its mining
- Scotland will provide menstrual aids to all women for free
- In Africa, polio has been completely eradicated. They owe it to the vaccine
- Vaccine against Covid-19 became the fastest developed vaccine in history

Trump: I'm going to my Scotland property the last day of my term, so I can't be arrested.
Scotland: Declares month long lockdown, and bans international travel until February 1st.
Well played Scotland, well played...

ZOOM-REHASHING

#26 Where's My Broccoli Belated Christmas quiz (we missed the trick that this was actually the 11th day of Christmas) – Inevitably, with the roll out picking up pace, the hot topic as we gathered was vaccinations, who would be getting them when and what the effect would be. Knight rider's arrival with a stunning backdrop soon distracted us, but I misheard him and thought he said it was Alum bay on the Isle of Wight rather than Ha Long bay, Vietnam! Jacqui's excellent quiz was by PowerPoint presentation with a maximum 36 points available and was won by Keeps It Up and Wildbush (see next page to have a go). Moving on we found ourselves challenging our home hubs starting with Alexa and silicon heaven, which Wilds Thing found highly amusing but we were unable to hear due to an internet issue. Asking Google to execute order 66 produced “sorry, I don’t have an inhibitor chip” whatever that means, and I suspect it wasn’t what Sean was expecting! Conversation had been punctuated by a farting sound which led Knightrider to educate us that you could ask hubs to blow a raspberry, prompting discussion on whether it would understand the term, and Kit confessing he meant fart but was being polite! Wilds Thing finally confessed to being the perpetrator after I brought along the “bla bla” button. Even as news came through of Mr. Johnsons latest speech, we were distracted by what appeared to be a plate of whipped cream between Keeps It Up and Wildbush but transpired to be nothing more sinister than their couch back. It was little surprise that we had been put into a third lockdown and as we chatted, pubs were posting about free beer disposals, news that was followed by a hurried departure by Prince Crashpian! Suggestions that we should all head off and reconvene tomorrow were dismissed but Roaming Pussy’s running plans were affected by the new restrictions, which meant that she couldn’t run with WMB, so we plotted a solo trail around the hash houses of Haywards Heath area for her, before she told how she got free whisky from Asda after delivery guy Gary accidentally mangled the lid. Sean was getting stuck into phish food, but left due to something to do with exams with the parting shot: What comes after a 69? The answer, coincidentally mooted recently as a Covid preventative, was mouthwash. Hmm, thanks Sean. Angel and I had managed a rushed look at one of the latest Dangleberry Sash’s, a Christmas light trail in Hove, so tried promoting that and the sister one in Brighton, but the reality is that the new travel limitations would prevent anyone here from trying them, and sadly many of the lights would be down by now anyway. Wildbush again shared some funnies before we wrapped up another great Zoom hash get together!

Hove Christmas lights Echoes Sash from Hove Park Tavern - Conscious that there was a limited window to get the maximum benefit from Dangleberry's latest Echoes Sash solo hashes Angel and I dragged the kids out one evening for a stroll around the trail from the Hove Park Tavern before we got locked down again. Familiar territory for anyone who was on the Christmas hash, the start would be 5-10 minute walk from either Hove or Aldrington stations. Parking is restricted but is free for 4 hours by the side of the park and a short walk to the start. Despite it only being the 8th day of Christmas we discovered early on that many of the lights had already been taken down or turned off ready, I suspect because so many put them up during the November lockdown a electricity bill or thoroughly fed up with them b make for an interesting, albeit roady, trail and g anything away on where the trail goes. A coup had gone completely mad for charity but ha Gooley loudly proclaiming, "I would definitely which we found the beer/ sweetie stop; and th neighbourhood effort! Another excellent Sash, 2 hours even walking. Thanks Dangleberry!

What should I wear for New Year's Eve?

Just for consideration, Mad Max was set in 2021... is it socially acceptable to dress like this straight away, or do we give it a few weeks?

ReZooming the hash

#27 Wilds Thing's hashing, parkrun and running in general quiz – As faces arrived on the screen there was the usual faffing around associated with any hash gathering, real or virtual, which I guess adds another touch of authenticity to proceedings! It didn't help that the hare had 'forgotten' to inform us it was a MyQuiz and we would need the access code, but we chatted about Covid for a few minutes, and the necessity of school kids needing to take a test before returning, but who have already learnt to gag to convince the teachers they've done it properly. Nice. Elsewhere we had Double Trouble, which probably makes up for her absence in rainy Seaford, when our Covid officer was unable to hash due to a Covid test! Despite an offer to delay the start, hare caught some of us out with the launch and I missed the first question completely. A smattering of hash related questions were followed by, probably too many, cunning questions about parkrun which my OCD interest gave me the chance to climb up the table to emerge victorious. Prince Crashpian decided to go for the wooden spoon but failed his initial bid to get every question wrong, some of the correct options being so unbelievable as to lull him into a false sense of security, but it was still acknowledged that his was probably the greater achievement! It was good to see Gromit again, but how frustrating for him having finally persuaded East Grinstead H3 to start up again on BH7 lines, only for the latest lockdowns to scupper their plans. We were also joined post-quiz by Nose Job from the Bull Moon H3, last seen on Zoom#1, who proceeded to tell us about some of the boozy zooms he's been on with other hashes before announcing that, since New Year, he's staying dry on weekdays! It didn't take much prompting for Dangleberry to offer to set a Sash Echoes run in Birmingham for NJ, and a pub name was duly offered up. The rapid rate of increase in cases in the south was jokingly attributed to someone from the Midlands bringing it down, the finger immediately being pointed at Dipstick, who some of you may know (for clarity this is neither George Baxters old dog or Come Again's brother, both of whom share that moniker), who recently passed through on a visit to the Isle of Wight. Roaming suggested we try the toilet roll toss again. We really need more practice, but at least PC had moved on from no toilet roll to a newspaper! Dangleberry then promised to take a screenshot if we all pretended to be the moon, initially calling it a moonshot, but after the revelation in #286, I don't think we want to call it that. He then went on to show us the chickens in the shed, which we could hear gently clucking in his background, prompting yet another show and tell as all manner of cuddly toys were dragged out for presentation including the owl and the platypus, a toucan and even Chewbacca (Wilds Thing of course!). A sombre mood befell chat as Bushsquatter and Cliffbanger told of the impact post-Grenfell on their own block of flats and situation. Making light of it they said that, should things go wrong, they had all the equipment necessary to abseil the 8 floors to ground level! After Wildbush funnies and a host of extras by folk pointing their phones at their cameras, there was yet more discussion about how and where we can run under current restrictions, Keeps It Up offering the advice to pull neck tubes over your face when passing others. You had to be there to benefit from the rest of it, but we talked on and finally wrapped up another great zoom hash!

(MOCK)IN' THE NEWS

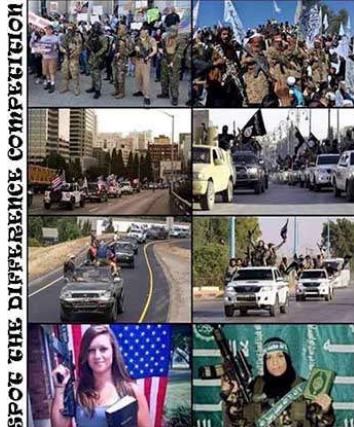

I have an idea, bring back the This Morning weather map, but instead it's Matt Hancock running around telling us which tier we are all in whilst trying not to fall in.

As the person with the nuclear codes is deemed too dangerous to have a Twitter account, @realDonaldTrump has been spotted ranting about Mitt Romney on an Amazon customer review page for dress socks.

Quote of the year: "Due to travel restrictions, this year the United States has had to organise the coup at home".

As an inquest into how Trump supporters got into the Capitol building begins, evolutionary scientists suggest at least one of them must have worked out how to operate a door handle.

Suddenly Disney is out of magic, Paris is no longer romantic, New York doesn't stand up anymore, the Chinese wall is no longer a fortress, and Mecca is empty. Hugs & kisses suddenly become weapons, and not visiting parents & friends becomes an act of love. Suddenly you realize that power, beauty & money are worthless, and can't get you the oxygen you're fighting for. The world continues its life and it is beautiful. It only puts humans in cages. I think it's sending us a message: "You are not necessary. The air, earth, water, and sky without you are fine. When you come back, remember that you are my guests. Not my masters." @ Haarlem, Netherlands

A friend of mine told me a story about an eye test he had in 2010. When the optician asked what he could see, he said, "A Chinese fella eating a bat; worldwide panic buying; face masks; closed pubs, cinemas and theatres; and empty football grounds and airports." The optician said he didn't need glasses, he had 2020 vision.
